

THE WHIG STANDARD.

From the New York Tribune.
HENRY CLAY.

The Tars will man their gallant ships,
And fling the canvas free,
Again unfurl the "Bunting Strips"
And cheerily put to sea,
They'll heave, and weigh, and stow, and pull,
And sing and hoist away,
They'll hoist, and hoist, and hoist, and hoist,
And hoist in Henry Clay.

The Carmen long to see the loads
Of merchandise arrive,
For then the wharves, and streets, and roads,
Will be a busy hive,
They'll back, and pack, and pile, and lash,
And drive and cart away;
And cart, and cart, and cart, and cart,
And carry in Henry Clay.

The Press foretells a brighter day
To cheer the Printer's breast;
They've turned the world the other way—
There's "Sunrise in the West!"
They'll set, and impose, and correct, and revise,
And print, and publish away;
They'll publish, and publish, and publish, and publish,
The name of Henry Clay.

The Ladies—bless the lovely band—
Our country's joy and pride,
They go for Harry, hand in hand,
Maid, matron, belle, and bride,
To gain "Protection" for themselves,
They'll marry and marry away,
And tell their lovers, and husbands, and sons,
To vote for Henry Clay.

The rich, the poor, the bowed, the free,
Through all our noble land,
To bring the nation's jubilee
Will lend a helping hand,
They'll pull together all as one,
And shout and work away,
Together, together, together, together,
Hurra! for Henry Clay!

HOPE AND MEMORY.

A little baby lay in the cradle, and Hope came and kissed it. When its nurse gave it a cake, Hope promised another to-morrow; and when its young sister brought a flower, over which it clapped its wings and crowed, Hope told of brighter ones which it would gather for itself.

The babe grew to a child, and another friend came and kissed it. Her name was Memory. She said, "Look behind thee, and tell me what thou seest." The child answered, "I see a little book." And Memory said, "I will teach thee to get honey from the book, that will be sweet to thee when thou art old."

The child became a youth. Once when he went to his bed, Hope and Memory stood by the pillow. Hope sang a melodious song, and said "Follow me, and every morning thou shalt wake with a smile as sweet as the lay I sung thee."

But Memory said, "Hope, is there any need that we should contend? He shall be mine as well as thine; and we shall be to him as sisters all his life long."

So he kissed Hope and Memory, as he was beloved of them both. While he slept peacefully they sat silently by his side, weaving rainbow tissues into dreams. When he awoke, they came in with the lark to a good morning, and he gave a hand to each.

He became a man. Every day Hope guided him to his labor, and every night he supped with Memory at the table of Knowledge.

But at length Age found him, and turned his temples grey. To his eye the world seemed altered. Memory sat by his elbow chair, like an old and tried friend. He looked at her seriously, and said, "Hast thou not lost something that I entrusted to thee?"

And she answered, "I fear so, for the lock of my casket is worn. Sometimes I am weary and sleepy, and time purloins my key. But the gems that thou didst give me when life was new—I can account for all—see how bright they are!"

While they thus sadly conversed, Hope put forth a wing that she had worn, folded under her garment, and tried its strength in a heavenward flight.

The old man laid down to die, and when the soul went forth from the body the angels took it; and Memory walked with it through the open gate of Heaven. But Hope lay down at the threshold, and gently expired, as a rose given out her last odors.

Her startling sigh was like the music of a seraph's harp. She breathed it into a glorious form, and said:

"Immortal happiness! I bring thee a soul that I have led through the world. It is now time that Jesus hath redeemed it."—Mrs. Sigourney.

"THE EYES HAVE IT."

"The eyes have it," as the man said when his better and bigger half dashed the contents of his snuff box in his face.

The above anecdote recalls a scene which we once witnessed in a western city. It was during the session of the Legislature. The wise men and the great men of the State were assembled to make laws and drink whiskey. Most of them were boisterous; and a few were made mean by their dignity. Among the latter was a tall, raw-boned, brawling pettifogger, whose mouth was as huge as the muzzle of a long-pipe, and his head as empty as the professions of his party.

He stood exactly six feet two, in his stockings; and he had an arm like the fore-leg of a Pennsylvania wheel-horse. He descended in a straight line from Goliath, it was supposed. At all events, he very often got dived with a sling. Upon such occasions he was excessively insolent, and never failed to brow-beat a humb-like colleague, who had, accidentally, given him a terrible broadside in debate one day. Our hero had an hundred times sworn vengeance against his little enemy; and his little enemy had a thousand times significantly shook his head as he replied, that "it would be just as well, if agreeable, for Old Goliath to let out the job."

"What do you mean by that?" inquired our hero one day of his little enemy.

"Oh! never mind Mister Goliath."

"Yes but I will mind: and if you don't answer me, I will claw you up as I would an oyster."

"Keep your temper big chap. You have room enough in your upper story to stow it!"

"You insult me, you pigmy. I will ask you again what you mean; and if you don't answer, I'll make mince meat of you. What do you mean, sir?"

There was a moment's pause, when Goliath sprang toward his little enemy, who said—

"You have put the question, Old Sampson, and the eyes have it," at the same moment dashing a fist full of Scotch snuff in the giant's face—closing his peepers, and making him roar like a mad bull.—Rochester Democrat.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

The following statement of an actual occurrence, (says the New York American,) translated for that paper from the Deutsche Schallpost, well exemplifies how unjustly a combination of circumstances may sometimes accuse a man:

"At a table-d'hôte at Ludwigsburg, one of the company was showing a very rare gold coin, which was passed round the table on a plate, and gave rise to many suppositions as to its age, country, value, &c. The conversation then gradually branched off to other subjects, till the coin was forgotten, and on the owner asking for it back, to the surprise of all, it was not to be found. A gentleman sitting at the foot of the table was observed to be in much agitation, and, as his embarrassment seemed to increase with the continuance of the search, the company were about to propose a very disagreeable measure, when suddenly a waiter entered the room, saying: 'Here is the coin; the cook has just found it in one of the finger glasses.' The relief to all was manifest; and now the suspected stranger spoke for the first time as follows: 'Gentlemen, none of you can rejoice more than myself at the recovery of the coin, for picture to yourselves my painful situation: by a singular coincidence, I have a duplicate of the same coin in my purse! (here showing it to the company.) The idea that, on the personal search which would probably be proposed, I would be taken for a peddler of the coin, added to the fact that I am a stranger here, with no one to vouch for my integrity, had almost driven me distracted. The honesty of the cook and lucky accident has saved my honor.' The friendly congratulation of the company soon effaced the remembrance of their unjust suspicions."

TEMPERANCE ELOQUENCE.

An old man lately made the following speech at a temperance jubilee in New Market, New Hampshire:

"I have come twelve miles to attend this meeting, yet I do not value my time. I feel rewarded by what I see around me. My friends, I have seen more of the world than most of you. I have trod the streets of proud London, and the winds of distant India have fanned these furrowed cheeks of mine. My keel has been on every sea, and my name on every tongue. Heaven blessed me with one of the best of wives; and my children—oh! why should I speak of them? My home was once a paradise. But I bowed like a brute to that killing cup; my eldest son tore himself from his degraded father, and has never returned. My young heart's idol—my beloved and suffering wife—has gone, brokenhearted, to the grave. And my lovely daughter, whose image I seem to see in the beauty around me once my pride and my hope, pined away in sorrow and mourning, because her father was a drunkard, and now sleeps by her mother's side. But I still live to tell the history of my shame and the ruin of my family. I still live, and stand here before you to offer up my heart's fervent gratitude to my Heavenly Father that I have been snatched from the brink of the drunkard's grave. And while I live I shall struggle to restore my wandering brethren again to the bosom of society. This form of mine is bending and wasting under the weight of years. But, my young friends, you are just blooming into life; the places of your fathers and mothers will soon be vacant. See that you come up to fill them with pure hearts and animated lips! Bind the blessed pledge firmly to your hearts, and be it the Shibboleth of life's warfare!"

Heavy damages against Stage Proprietors.—We learn from the Pittsburgh Spirit of Age, that the case of Miss Bishop, of McConnellville, Ohio, against Stockton & Moore, proprietors of a stage line running from Baltimore to Wheeling, has been occupying most of the past week in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Western District of Pennsylvania, now sitting in that city. It was brought to recover damages sustained by Miss Bishop by the upsetting of a stage of the defendants, in January, 1842. Both parties agreed that the stage was upset, that Miss Bishop's arm was broken, her elbow badly strained or bruised, her face cut or scratched in several places, a wound in the scalp two inches long, and the upper lip cut and swollen so as to produce some deformity, which is gradually subsiding. The court charged the jury at considerable length, when they retired. On their return into court, they rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $4,500, and costs of suit.

Profession vs. Practice.—It is worthy of notice how well "Democratic" professions agree with its practice. A short time ago we noticed that some of the Loco presses were counseling themselves under the accumulation of defeat, with the hope that the election of President might possibly with proper "Democratic" management be thrown into the House of Representatives, and free trade Van Buren, nullifying Calhoun, or ten-centa-per-day Buchanan, or some other Locofoxy worthy, be thus inflicted on the country for the ensuing four years. As another illustration of this consistent "Democracy," this pure regard for the people, we copy the following from the Portland (Me.) American, a Locofoxy sheet: "By this calculation you will see that there is a probability of Morse's defeat. We hope to get more scattering votes."

Morse, we need hardly say, is a Whig, and we are happy to add is elected notwithstanding the above last straw to which Locofoxyism clings. But what was the "calculation" referred to. Why Morse has 3,539 votes and the Loco candidate 2,789—about 800 people preferring Morse to his opponent. But Locofoxyism hoped to defeat him not by its candidate, for that was out of the question, but by taking advantage of the miserable majority-feature of New England elections. So much for "Democracy." It would prefer that it should remain unrepresented than that a Whig should succeed. What a regard for the people and their wishes, of which Locofoxyism so loves to prate, in the abstract.—Hartford Journal.

Kendall's Expositor asserts—and the statement is endorsed by the Hartford Times and by a correspondent of the New Haven Register—that Mr. Van Buren was cheated out of a re-election to the Presidency in 40! In other words, the last Presidential election was a fraud on Mr. Van Buren—damages one hundred thousand dollars—to recover which he brings an action against the United States in November, 1844, and summons the whole people—the same rascals that cheated him before—on the jury! Van Buren appears for himself—Henry Clay for the people. Guess he'll get cheated worse next time.—Hartford Courier.

CLIPPINGS.

The first steamboat which navigated the Mississippi was called the New Orleans, of New Orleans. She was built at Pittsburgh, in 1811, and was lost in 1814.

It is stated that $300,000 has been subscribed, in New York, for a new Marine Insurance Company, of which Philip Hone is to be the President.

Georgia is about passing a bill, to elect members of Congress by district, which is saying in effect, we are wiser to-day than we were yesterday.

The Abbe Frasey, honorary canon and curé of St. Nicholas des Champs, who is the oldest curé or rector of Paris, has been created a member of the legion of honor. The archbishop of Rheims has been promoted to the rank of officer of the legion.

An iron steamer is building at Birkenhead, England, for the Baptist Missionary Society. It is intended for the conveyance of missionaries to the coast of Africa.

J. B. Perault, the defaulting cashier of the Citizens Bank, New Orleans, has been arraigned in the criminal court, and he entered a plea of not guilty.

The average number of deaths in London per week is 900.

A steamboat left Cincinnati last Saturday for New Orleans with upwards of 2,000 barrels of provisions of all kinds. She had also on board a large invoice of Western Reserve Cheese, and nearly 10,000 flower pots.

Beauty in the face of women, and folly in their hearts, are two worms that fret life and waste goods.

"Sally," said an amorous southern to his intended, "give me a kiss, will you, Sally?" "No," said Sally, "help yourself." Probably he did.

If a man will but glance over his yesterday, he will at once see how foolish it is to fret one's self about the time to come; for he will find in every yesterday, a miniature grave, as it were, dug by a too fearful imagination, in which is buried all his little store of daily happiness. Men slight the good they have, in their anxiety for the good to come. They waste their oil for to-day in fruitless attempts to procure a supply for the morrow, forgetting that He who replenishes the cress is inexhaustible.

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES.

PHILADELPHIA STORES.

Smith's Row, corner of 11th and F streets, AND
Granite Row, Pennsylvania Avenue,
BETWEEN 3D AND 4TH STREETS.

CITIZENS, STRANGERS, and MEMBERS OF CONGRESS, come and buy where only one price is asked. Persons not acquainted with the prices of goods often have to pay fifteen, and even thirty per cent. more than those who know the customary price, and have the tact of seeing down to the lowest price. In our Stores, we ask no more and take no less than the fixed price. All intelligent persons approve of this way of doing business, and believe it the only fair way of dealing.

Our stock is large and well assorted. We have of our own make, DRESS BOOTS, at $3; WATER PROOF, at $3 50 and $1 50; DRESS BOOTEESE, $1 75 to $2 50, of FRENCH CALF; GENTLEMEN'S SLIPPERS, MOROCCO AND CALF, at 75 cents; GENTLEMEN'S CLOTH SLIPPERS, at $1 25.

QUILTED WALKING SHOES for Ladies, decidedly the most pretty and comfortable shoe a lady can have for cold weather.

PARIS TIES and SLIPPERS, very handsome, still selling for $1.

Children's wear in every variety.

Nearly 1,000 pairs of India Rubber Over Shoes, in every style.

Prime figured Rubbers, a beautiful over shoe, at 75 cents.

We seek not to humbug the public with "selling out below cost," or "twenty-five per cent. lower than any other store;" no sensible person is influenced by any such statements. Our manner of doing business is upon the one price system; we fix a fair profit, which all no doubt will allow, and in so doing, we have been well sustained, as our cash book fully shows.

Repairing, and every thing connected with our business, shall receive prompt attention.

Prices the same in each Store.

Three of the four comprising the firm are practical Shoemakers, having graduated on the bench.

PERIFOCAL, OR AMERICAN PERISCOPIC SPECTACLES.

SUPERIOR to any other kind in use, constructed in accordance with the philosophy of Nature, in the peculiar form of a CONCAVO-CONVEX ELLIPSES; admirably adapted to the organs of Sight, and perfectly natural to the Eye; affording altogether the best artificial help to the human vision ever invented. They are manufactured only by H. M. PAINE & Co., Massachusetts, and can be obtained in this city of

S. MASI,

At his store on Pennsylvania avenue, near Gadsby's, to whom we have consigned a large assortment, suited to every age and condition of the eye.

The Perifocal Glasses can be used for the greatest length of time, either by day or night, with perfect ease, (when selected to suit the state of the eye,) and never cause that giddiness of the head, or unpleasant sensation to the eyes, that many experience from using the common kind, but tend to strengthen and improve the sight; as will be seen by the numerous testimonials from those who have used them, which can be examined by calling as above. Perifocal Glasses put into other spectacle frames.

N. B. All persons not satisfied with these Glasses after making trial of them, are particularly requested to have them exchanged until suited.

JAS. KILBURN,
nov 25—1m Agent for the Manufacturers.

TUCKER & SON, Merchant Tailors, having just received their Fall and Winter Stock of Goods, respectfully announce the fact to their foreign and city customers, and also extend an invitation to the public generally to examine their assortment of French and English Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, and Fancy Articles for Gentlemen, all of the very latest styles, and so varied in prices that every one may be suited.

It has been their object, in the selection of goods the present season, not only to please all tastes, by presenting a splendid variety, but also to convince all who are disposed to test the matter, that they can be furnished with clothing at a regular establishment in Washington as cheaply as at a store or by going abroad: it will therefore afford us pleasure to illustrate these facts either by direct or indirect comparison.

The above engraving is intended to represent a plough invented and patented by the subscriber. The object of this plough is to plough all mellow lands without increasing the power, and to do double the work of the common plough in use, and also to avoid the injury done to lands by working them too wet, which is often the case when a field is sown, and it rains and continues wet; the farmer, from the situation of his grain laying on the surface, is compelled to proceed, having necessarily sown the field before it could be cross-harrowed, and this way injures both his crops and land. Often limed and loose porous lands absorb and retain most moisture, which object is most speedily effected by the use of my plough. It is also intended to plough in wheat at twice the rate of the common plough, and burying the same at a uniform depth in the earth, which prevents the frosts injuring it, and leaves the land in a better state, and also to furnish as you proceed; the farmer sows one or more lands, ploughs it in, and it is completed; should it rain, he can delay until his lands are in good working order, and by these means preserve his lands, and increases his crops. The weight of my middle sized plough is 35 pounds when single, and 70 when double, and of very light draught, and shifts the beam so as to take any desired width of furrow, and shifts from a double to a single plough, and has a wrought share and coulter. This plough has been tested, and performs well. Any person desiring further information can obtain it by addressing

WHEN WILL THE PUBLIC CEASE TO BE HUMBLED?—P. W. BROWNING, Merchant Tailor, in opposition to all humbuggers, most respectfully requests members of Congress and strangers visiting the city, not to purchase their clothing before calling to examine his large and superior stock of French and English Cloths, Cassimeres, and Vestings of the latest styles; as he is prepared to prove to them, that he is selling the same article of clothing from 20 to 25 per cent. cheaper than certain dry goods storekeepers that wish to take the trade out of the tailors' hands by holding out false pretences to the public, that they are selling suits of clothes from $10 to $20 cheaper than they can be purchased elsewhere. I want to know how it is possible for any set of men that have no practical knowledge of the business to sell clothes cheaper than practical tailors—men that know no more about making coats than they know about laying brick—notwithstanding all their arrangements with the celebrated tailors to cut and make their clothes, and their great facilities for buying goods, unless they have a facility for buying with out paying for them? I am determined to undersell them, and not to sacrifice my trade to such an avicious set of men until the last dollar is gone! All I ask is for you to call and examine for yourselves.
